

NIA Announces the 2020 Premier Industry Manufacturers

Herndon, Virginia—May 5, 2020—The National Insulation Association (NIA) is proud to honor the winners for the 2020 Premier Industry Manufacturer Awards.

The 2020 Premier Industry Manufacturers are:

Armacell
Johns Manville
Knauf Insulation, Inc.
Owens Corning
ROCKWOOL Technical Insulation

This award program was first awarded in 2019 to recognize and distinguish exemplary insulation manufacturing companies as industry advocates and leaders. Available exclusively to NIA member companies, the award rewards Associate (Manufacturer) members for their actions, which demonstrate leadership, commitment, and support to the mechanical insulation industry and NIA. Each of the winning companies participated in activities and actions that support NIA and the industry. Through this program, NIA's Associate members demonstrate to customers that their company is a recognized leader amongst their peers.

“Congratulations to these 5 companies!” said Michele M. Jones, NIA's Executive Vice President/CEO. “We are extremely fortunate to have the active participation of supportive Associate members in NIA and our industry, and this award program recognizes their leadership and commitment to our shared principles. These companies walk the talk and lead by example. We look forward to promoting them all year.”

NIA will present each company with its award in person at NIA's Fall Summit 2020, taking place November 4–5, 2020, at the MGM National Harbor.

Looking ahead to the 2020 calendar year program, due to the effects of COVID-19 on our in-person events and training opportunities, NIA will release a modified award application form and will notify members of the new application deadline later this year.
